

By All Means, Sensible Gifts This Year!

During this season of financial stringency and natural inclination toward economy, every condition favors the general abandonment of the practice of giving absurd and wasteful presents. The public mind is now ripe to see the good sense and real benefit of giving and receiving useful articles. Read the articles below and you will find something that will be appreciated by every member of the family:

For a Man's Christmas

YOU know how difficult it is to pick out the right Christmas presents for a man; even if you ask him, he can't tell you what he wants.

There's a way to suit him perfectly; buy his Christmas presents in a man's store where men's things are sold; the store where he buys his own stuff when he wants any.

This is the store for it; you'll find us prepared to show you the right things for any man's Christmas; you may be the man yourself.

How would a Hart, Schaffner & Marx fine suit or overcoat do? Say, at 18.50 to $25. Possibly you would prefer one at a little less price. We have a great stock of medium-priced clothing at $5 to $15 for suit or overcoat. A little unusual as a holiday gift, but all the better for that, maybe.

You'll find a great wealth of lesser things here, of course: things men want, need, constantly buy for themselves.

Fine neckwear, cuff and shirt studs, scarf pins, gloves, hosiery, handkerchiefs, smoking jackets, collars, shoes, slippers, fine hats, etc., etc.

If you don't know his size, and you can't find out without "giving yourself away" we'll exchange anything you buy that doesn't fit, for something that does.

You can come pretty near suiting a boy here, too; boys like men's things especially. And if it's a boy's suit, we know one of the 'Perfection' make will please him.

Few Here Know This.

When an eminent authority announced in the Scranton (Pa.) Times that he had found a new way to treat the dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, every-day medicine, with just common, every-day drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. Today nearly every newspaper in the country, even the metropolitan dailies, is announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that any one can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Danielson, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as every one knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which is not eradicated, either in the urine through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing and invigorating tonic to the Kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache. He also warns people in reading New York paper, against the indiscriminate use of many patent medicines.

Getting Better.

Illness has at last got in line with opinion, and is fast closing in on the whiskey dives of that state. 19 saloons in twelve counties in Illinois have closed their doors. Of these, the largest number of saloons, 9, were closed in Williamson county, 17, while the largest number in a single city, 32, were closed at Jacksonville, Ill. Johnson county lost five, Massac 17, Perry county 25, 12 of them at DuQuoin. Piasa county 23, Randolph county 5, Union county 10 and Williamson county 34, 21 being at Herrin.

It is a question of time until the storm will strike our neighbor, Cairo, and then it will be a respectable town.

Honeymoon Special.

Final plans have been perfected for the famous "Honeymoon Special," which will depart from Chicago Dec. 18 for thirty days of billing and cooing and goo-gooing, special facilities having been provided for Dan Cupid to boss the luxurious train. This decided novelty in railway transportation is to be inaugurated by the Northwestern, the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific lines.

Efforts will be made to confine the entire passenger list to newly weds, but reservations are being accepted from married couples who still love each other and have never taken the honeymoon trip. The idea originated in the fertile brain of S. A. Hutchinson, manager of the tourist department of the Northwestern and Pacific roads. Mr. Hutchinson is a roly-holy and a fair representative of Cupid. For years he has observed with anguish the fact that newly wedded couples are made the butt of fun and frequent annoyance on their wedding trips.

Hence the "Honeymoon Special," upon which they can do just as they like without and coarse jokes or other interference on the part of outsiders. The train itself will be the finest ever equipped. There will be a Christmas tree, an unusually fine Christmas dinner, holiday carols and a concert in the library car and the celebration of several birthdays.

Another Report.

J. M. Wilson, of Falmouth, Ky., writes as follows: "I notice in the Hickman Courier, under the heading of 'Hickman Bridge Lost' that a government official had been to Hickman looking for the bridge and could not locate it. Hickman Bridge spans the Kentucky River, 22 miles south of Lexington, where the pike from Lexington to Danville crosses the river, and was guarded by soldiers during the war. A part of my regiment was there during the summer of 1862.

If you can communicate these facts to the official, they may lead him 200 or 300 miles nearer the spot." J. M. Wilson, late Capt. Co. A. 18th Ky. Infantry."

Storm Passed.

A Union City bank prints in one of their local papers the following bit of optimistic news:

"Why did it come? who knows? Like a thief in the night it was on us without warning. There was a cause—many causes—but we didn't cause it. It hurt us as well as others, but it didn't scare us; why should it? Our bank was safe, solid, sound as the everlasting hills. It couldn't break us; all the money gamblers in Wall street can't do that. The storm has passed, confidence restored and nobody seriously hurt. We have done our utmost during the trying days of the last few weeks to accommodate every body."

The thing the people would like to know is whether or not banks have resumed payment of checks on deposits. It's a cinch any bank ought to be safe and solid as long as they take in money and never pay out any.

THE HICKMAN BANK

HICKMAN - KENTUCKY.

The Serious and Humorous Side of Assessing.

The average citizen, if the experience of the Assessor was related to him in all of its details, would doubtless feel that his credulity was being seriously taxed, losing sight of the fact that "truth is stranger than fiction." On the other hand, if the Assessor was to overstep the proprieties that should be a part of his functions as an official, and expose the petty subterfuge and, in many instances, down-right evasion, to dodge their lawful portion of tax assessment, on the part of a minor portion of the population of the city, he would be stigmatized as a post graduate of the Ananias Club, both by the parties exposed and the ones entertained with the recital.

The petulant individual, with a little hammer about an inch long, and weighing perhaps the sixteenth part of a pound, knocks on the city's methods as vigorously as the hercules of wealth with his figurative sledge hammer. But of all the knockers that the average assessor most abhors and dreads, and the one he usually goes around, and leaves for the last, is the purring, insinuating and paradoxical as it may seem, curious specimen of femininity that carries a little hammer in a velvet lined case, that sparkles, and glints, and shimmers bewitchingly as it is daintily and deftly wielded against the officials from the Mayor to the most humble official in the push; so softly does her little hammer descend that one would imagine a greater intonation, as he watches the energy of the wielder.

You sadly and silently pass out of her scope of vision, and your heart almost stops beating as you mark a hundred or two to her list figures.

The real humorous side of the assessor's mission somewhat mitigates the serious aspects; passing by a one story palace with newspapers and miscellaneous wearing apparel serving as window glass, a disheveled damsel came rushing around the house inquiring as to what kind of books we were peddling; when informed as to our official standing she was amazed. "Is you a 'sessor, de Lawd, you is de fust one I evah seed."

At another time we were hailed on the street by an excited individual whose first exclamation was, after replying to his inquiry as to our official standing: "I ain't got no dog, and I've assessed for two, nevah owned a dog." He had mistaken us for Mr. Sanson, to whom he will be obliged to apologize.

The most ludicrous episode however was when we accosted an individual on Clinton street desiring to know if certain lots on the corner of Moscow Ave. and Fifth St. still belonged to him, calling him by the parties name whom we supposed him to be; "I ain't no 'nigger" was his response as he gave us a look in which was concentrated all the hate in his anatomy, and which embarrassed us to the stammering point, we attempted to apologize, but the affront was so decided, that no heed was paid to our weak attempt at conciliation. Surely the way of the assessor is hard. Our ambition is satisfied, and we hope those who hid their property from us will not criticize us too harshly.

—EX. ASSESSOR.

Trust and Tobacco

From time immemorial tobacco leaf has been sold in the tobacco raising regions at the free competition of buyers. There was never any quoted price for tobacco as there is for wheat or cotton, but the farmers brought their tobacco to market and buyers were wont to bid for it. The Trust has changed all this, for now in a great part of the tobacco region there's but one buyer. The Trust makes the price what it pleases, and the farmer must accept this price or take his tobacco home again.

Under the operation of this system, such tobacco as for years had brought in a free and open market six to eight cents a pound sells for three cents a pound or less. The land that had formerly produced $75 to $200 an acre now yields less than half of its former returns, and a distinguished Kentuckian has calculated that in this State, because of the operation of the Trust, the returns to the tobacco farmer are less than twenty cents a day for his labor.

In four of the countries of Europe—France, Italy, Austria and Spain—tobacco is a Government business, and these four Governments buy in the United States every year about one million pounds of tobacco. The Trust arranged with the buyers for these Governments that they should have a certain fixed territory in the South in which they might buy without opposition, provided they should buy nothing outside of that territory.

When this arrangement was made it destroyed the last chance of competition, and gave over the producer bound to his despoiler.

Against these conditions the farmers of the South have protested to the courts, for every step in the Trust's proceedings has been wholly illegal and a specially prohibited. Yet the law has never been enforced upon this Trust, nor has the Government until lately given it any greater heed than it is now given in some feeble, quickly abandoned inquiries.

Night Riders Busy.

Only two or three counties lie between us and the scene of the great fight between the tobacco growers and the trusts. What the outcome will be nobody knows, but all are watching with interest. The growers are determined in their efforts, and thoroughly organized. Their mode of operation is a sequel to that of the famous Ku Klux. Two hundred thousand dollars worth of property was destroyed Friday night in a raid by night riders at Hopkinsville. The riders took possession of the town, including the police department, fire department the telephone and telegraph offices, and burned four tobacco warehouses, while several residences were damaged by fire.

Many shots were fired, and Lindsay Mitchell, an independent buyer, was beaten. The windows of business houses and banks were shot out by the 500 riders, who were all armed.

They did not neglect to visit the office of the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, a local paper which opposed their lawless methods, and play havoc with it in general.

TELEPHONE NO. 20

McCreary on Bryan.

Senator McCreary has given his views as to the Democratic Presidential nomination to the Washington papers as follows:

"I think Mr. Bryan will carry the Democratic National Convention, and will be nominated by acclamation. And I think that he should receive the nomination, Mr. Bryan is the strongest man in the party today.

"He is not only the most popular man with the people, which means much, but he is also the man who has always advocated those things which are needed for the general welfare of the country. In the first place, Mr. Bryan advocated, as far back as 1894—when he first ran for the presidency—the regulation of railroad rates. The Republican party has seen that this legislation was necessary, and has regulated rates. In the second place, Mr. Bryan is an advocate of arbitration for the settlement of disputes between capital and labor. The Republican party has shown that it, too, believes in such measures.

"Mr. Bryan has advocated the prosecution of trusts, and the Republican party has prosecuted trusts. Mr. Bryan has always favored an income tax—has, in fact, regarded such a measure as necessary for many years. Now the Republican party—or, at least, President Roosevelt—is thinking seriously of such a tax. Last of all, Mr. Bryan is in favor of a revision of the present tariff, as are many of the Republicans throughout the country.

"Mr. Bryan will carry Kentucky, I am sure, by 15,000 votes, and he will certainly receive the support of the State in the national convention. While I cannot well speak for the rest of the South, I am convinced Mr. Bryan is the strongest candidate in the other States as well."

Wants Investigation.

If financial pirates and speculators who are part of Wall street are responsible for the present financial panic, Representative John Wesley Gaines of Tennessee thinks Congress should know it. What caused the panic and who started it are other things that Congress should know, he believes, in order to frame remedial legislation. To find out these facts he offered a resolution in the House, directing the speaker to appoint a commission of seven members "with full power, and whose duty it shall be to make a full and complete investigation of the causes which produced the present panic, where it started, who began it and his, its or their reasons, and to what extent the operations of the stock exchanges in New York city were a cause."

Congressman Ollie M. James was one of the speakers at the Bryan banquet in Washington a few nights ago, and when he got to the capital he found that the station agent at Marion, Ky., his home, had billed his dress suit to Washington, D. C. To find a ready-made dress suit in Washington that would fit Ollie was like looking for a needle in a haystack, so he had to pass up the "glad rags" and speak in his gray working suit.

Compared with Handbills.

A newspaper has 5,000 readers for each 1,000 subscribers. A merchant who puts out 1,000 handbills gets possibly 300 or 400 people to read—that is, if the boy who is trusted to distribute them does not chuck them under the sidewalk. The handbills cost as much as a half column advertisement in the home paper. All the women and girls and half the men and boys read the advertisements. Result: The merchant who uses the newspaper has 3,500 more readers. There is no estimating the amount of business that advertising does bring to a merchant, but each dollar brings somewhere from $20 to $100 worth of business.—Albion Mich. Evening Recorder.

NUTTING

By Byron Williams.

Where the bushes dip over along the old trail,
I am spending again with my basket and gill.
On my blue-denim shoulders, spread out at the back
With a knot in the front, is a brown gunny-sack.
Down the hard beaten pathway, I glide with a will
As I yell to my cronies who wait at the mill.
By the plum trees we halt for a succulent feast
And a fight with the pits, while the sun climbs the east.

Then again down the trail we are speeding once more
To the hick'ry nut grove by the stream's lapping shore.
Now we climb to the top with a pole, long and slim,
And we halter the nuts with a will, stern and grim.
But the best of it all is the lunch in the shade—
'Tis a feast of the gods by a boy's mother or brother.
With a cup from the spring, we are washing it down—
Just a ravenous bevy of boys, tanned and brown.
As the sun sinks to rest, we are back on the trail
With a gut that is lagged, a pace that is real.
On the wooded next day, held short by a board,
I am picking again o'er my fall nutting board.
When the winter winds blow and the country is white.

I will bring out the nuts for the family at night
While the fire in the grate is flame-tipped at its crest
And the company comes, I will crack with a zest.
And my mother will tell with a smile on her face
And a wave of her hand with its exquisite grace.
How I gathered the nuts when the weather was fine
And the trees were all red, in the fall nutting time.

Past the vista of years I can see down the trail
To a lad who is speeding with basket and gill.
He is off to the woods, down the crooked old track—
'Round his blue-denim shirt is a sack on his back!
How my heart yearns to go with the freckled-faced band
Where the nuts grow again in a boy's fairyland.
Take me back, Father Time, for a day in the wild
Where the hick'ry nuts grow and the fox squirrels scold.
Take me back to the feast 'neath the broad spreading tree,
Let me feel, ere I die, just a boy's ecstasy!
Let me be just a boy in the varnished clime
That I knew as a barefoot in hick'ry nut time.

Governor Weds.

Our neighbor, Union City, has the honor of being the home of the wedding of Tennessee. This happened last Thursday afternoon, when Malcolm R. Patterson wedded in marriage to Miss Mary Howell Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gardner, and sister of Messrs. Will, Russell and Fred Gardner of St. Louis. The marriage was a very pretty home affair, and while characterized by elegance in all its details, it was a very quiet affair. The scene of the ceremony was the center of which was a beautiful wedding bell of the same pattern. At the close of the ceremony a shower of white chrysanthemum petals covered the happy couple.

Mrs. Thomas M. Jones of Columbia, at the altar, held the bride, admitting the guests to the library. The Memphis and Nashville guests almost filled the large room.

Before the bridal party came in, the marriage, Robert Gordon of Helena, Ark., and Miss Swigart, as pianist, sang "Oh, Fair and Sweet and Holy" and "My Dear." The former air was played as the party came downstairs and during the ceremony.

Rev. Sterling Foster, of Birmingham, Ala., brother-in-law of Gov. Patterson, came in first, and was followed by the maid of honor, Miss Louisa Gardner, sister of the bride.

Mr. Patterson came in with his brother-in-law, Mr. LeMaster, of Memphis, while his bride came in leaning on the arm of her father.

The ceremony was a most impressive one, the ring being used.

The bride was attired in a handsome dark blue traveling tailored suit and cream lace waist, with hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of large white chrysanthemums.

No more lovable bride has ever gone out of Union City, and the showers of congratulations and good wishes were certainly sincere.

Two special cars came from Nashville, bringing many prominent politicians, state officials and the governor's staff, many women from the capital's select social circles and the governor's pretty daughter, Miss Sarah Patterson, a school girl.

The presents, displayed in the parlor, were the handsomest ever seen here, one especially noticeable, a magnificent chest of silver, given by the state officials and a loving cup from his staff. The cut glass, china and various other presents were very elaborate.

Gov. and Mrs. Patterson have gone for a brief trip to New Orleans, and will soon be at home in the governor's mansion, where the first lady of state will be a valuable addition to society at the capital. Gov. Patterson, who has been governor less than a year, has made a fine record as an executive, and he is a man of broad learning and strongest character.

FAIR WARNING

To those who have not filled their contracts with us for corn, this is to give notice that we will expect every bushel, by the time stipulated in their contract, unless some special arrangements are made. We bought this corn in good faith, and we must have it, or we will bring suit in the January Court for damages.

Last season we bought corn on contract, at 40 cents per bushel. At the time of delivery, it had dropped to 35 cents, but we took every ear we contracted for, although we were unable to get cars to ship in, and we allowed those we had bought from to throw the corn on the ground, as we had no other place to put it.

This season, we have gone to a great expense preparing to take care of our contracts, and we are sorry to state, that some of these same people who sold us corn last year, and threw it on the ground, are backward now about living up to their contracts, caused by corn advancing since their contracts were made.

Do not say that "your crop is short" and "that you will not have as much as you sold, etc." Every man who contracted 50 cent corn has raised a big crop, and have delivered every ear they sold, and then had some left.

You 40 cent men must come up with the corn, or prepare for lawsuits, as we are going to "play no favorites." Don't think for a moment, that a "threat not to do any more business with us" will deter us in any action in the courts, for we DON'T WANT TO DO BUSINESS, with a person who will lay down on his contract or word.

THE A. S. of E. COLUMN

—BY JAS. H. SAUNDERS—

"Ten men, all living in Chicago, possess a power little short of life or death over the people of the United States. This power is due to control over the two staffs of life, meat and bread, with an auxiliary grip on many other articles of prime necessity indispensable to man. These men own the big packing plants of Chicago, which fact becomes significant when it is stated that they are all directors of the corporation—the National Packing Company, organized under the laws of New Jersey, with a capitalization of $15,000,000. The latter concern was organized as a holding company, after the Government, through Judge Grosscup's court, enjoined the old meat trust from going on business in restraint of trade. Since then they have been more defiant and powerful than ever, and the Government is now taking steps to see if this latest combination can be broken up. These ten men, more powerful than those driven out from early Rome and Greece, have absolute control over these three things, among a large list of others:

"The price of meat to all consumers.

"The price of cattle to all breeders.

"The price of leather to all factories.

"The price of grain is controlled through wide interests and thus, as incidental, the price of bread. Without taking in the details by which the trust controls the price of the farmers' fertilizer, the government has already found out through its agents that this half-score of men actually monopolize the essentials of life—bread and meat.

"Like the old Roman triumvirate of Caesar, Anthony and Octavius, a handful of men in Packington have brazenly divided the world among themselves. Germany and France are given to Armour, Swift and Cudahy; Great Britain is assigned to Morris, Armour and Swift; the British colonies to Morris and Cudahy; America to all six companies; Russia to Armour and Swift, and other countries to preferred corporations. Each company enjoys advantages in its territory which enables it to win there, nobody being allowed to rob its victims but itself. It is amazing and would be incredible but that we have it on the assurance of Government officials who are investigating these astounding transactions. Only a month ago the big ten at Chicago served notices on wholesale meat dealers that all meat, except pork, were to be advanced three or four cents a pound, which had been preceded by a succession of advances this year, with prospects that there will be others. Thus it will be seen that this small coterie has the power to arbitrarily raise prices whenever it desires. There is no question of supply and demand, needs of the market or other commonplace of economics. Prices are put up automatically, just as a carpenter turns a wrench, just as a builder gives his screw another whirl.

"The Government's contention is that the big ten at Chicago have raised the price of necessities of life to the consumer and made no corresponding increase in the price paid for raw material, and it is upon this line that the most interesting struggle in the country is now being planned. When the "Ten Men of Money Island" decide upon the price to be paid for cattle, that settles it, according to the Government's information. All of the other corporations in the country, with a few unimportant exceptions, bow to the wishes of the ten leaders who have their grip on the food markets of the world. It was only by an inside quarrel over division of territory—kind of a falling out among thieves, that the Government was enabled to get the particulars of this conspiracy against the human race. The "squealers" let the cat out of the bag, and it is hoped the Government may in time break up this modern edition of the "Den of (less than) Forty Thieves," which is ready to be written up in the new Arabian Nights.

"The people had about come to the conclusion that as a trust the Standard Oil was too limit. There could be nothing meaner, nothing greedier, nothing more mysterious, nothing more rapacious, nothing more complete as a machine for wholesale robbery. But the articles dealt in by the Standard, while useful, are not really necessities of life. We can make shift to do without any of them, but we can't do without the articles dealt in by the tyrannous ten. We can live without kerosene, without gasoline, without lubricating oil. But we can not live without eating. We must have bread and meat and we must have shoes to wear. The Standard Oil has us by the pocket; the Ten Tyrants have us by the throat. Like Joseph in Egypt, by cornering all the food supplies they may eventually force the people to give up, first, their money, then their land, and, finally, their liberties. Rome was free no more after the triumvirate of traitors took charge. Nor can the liberties of this country survive if a few pirates like the Standard Oil crowd are allowed to filch a billion dollars clear money from the pockets of the people in eight years, or a still meaner gang is allowed to grip us by the throat and name their price for all the food that passes between our lips."

The above is from the American Farmer, if it is published in the interest of any special society or Farmers' Union we are not aware of the fact. But it only shows what we have always argued that the Government never will break up the trusts. This must be done by the farmers themselves if it is ever accomplished. We regret the trouble in our society, but this should only make us work harder. While our officers differ in regard to the best methods of controlling the price, it shows that more farmers and more farm papers teach that it must be done, or the common people must submit to the trusts.

HICKMAN, KENTUCKY

Our New Governor.

Augustus E. Willson took the oath of office as governor at 12:08 o'clock Tuesday. The oath was administered by Chief Justice O'Rear.

Under a gloomy sky there was gathered one of the largest crowds ever seen at an inauguration. Gov. Willson is Kentucky's thirty-eighth Governor.

A drizzling rain began to fall during the early morning and by 10 o'clock a mist of snow was falling. The inaugural procession headed by the Master of the Parade and a detachment of the Kentucky Military Institute, followed by the Hon. J. B. Beckham and Gov.-elect Willson, in a carriage were followed by the members of the State officials-elect. The march was accompanied by various organizations, making a procession of nearly a mile in length.

The inaugural ceremonies took place on a large stand erected in front of the Legislative building at Madison.

On arriving at the Statehouse a few minutes were occupied by the Governor and his escort standing on the platform because of the crowd which pressed forward to get upon his alighting from the carriage and it was with difficulty that Gov. Willson and Gov.-elect Willson got through the crowd and to the stand, where the immediate press were waiting to greet the Governor-elect.

At 12:08 o'clock Augustus E. Willson finished the inaugural ceremony and said: "Mr. Chief Justice, I am ready to take the oath of office."

Chief Justice O'Rear stepped forward, and Mr. Willson with hand clasped, his face pale and his mouth open, listened to words as Chief Justice O'Rear read.

When he concluded he addressed the Governor, and Mr. Willson replied his loyalty to the Commonwealth and Constitution by an emphatic nod of the head and the utterance of the words, "I do."

At 12:15 o'clock Mr. Willson became Chief Executive of the State. J. B. Beckham, a private citizen.

The inaugural ceremonies were ended with prayer by the Rev. W. L. Crow, after which Dr. E. E. E. gave, in a brief speech, presented with a handsome silver set of plates of esteem and respect to the citizens of Frankfort.

The inaugural address Mr. Willson made as Chief Executive of the State, was a statement of his faith in the faithful performance of his duty by the State, the Constitution and the law. He said he was possessed of an unflinching faith, hope and courage and would be the Governor of all the people of the State regardless of political line. He said he would sacrifice his life to the service of the people who had intrusted him with their government. He said that all the citizens had accepted the result of the election, and that there was no hate or bitterness against the people. In reference to the maintenance of the laws, the new Governor said the law commanded obedience and did not permit dissent. He said that every citizen was entitled to the protection of the law and to live in peace and safety.

He said every man was entitled to his liberty and protection in the pursuit of happiness. He deplored violence and disorder and said the law must be upheld. In conclusion, he thanked the present administration of Kentucky and appealed to the sense of fairness of Democrats to correct any unfairness that might result from the present statutes.

Mr. Willson read his speech from notes made on a small pad. Casting his notes aside, he spoke for several seconds appealing for a new Kentucky, a united people and for peace, good will and brotherly love among the people of the State. He pledged himself not to permit any selfish motive to control his official acts and manifested his real desire and earnestness to give an administration that will meet with the approval of all the people.

George Driscoll, at Union City, lost his fine home by fire early Tuesday morning. The fire was discovered about 5 o'clock in the rear of the house. None of the family was up, and the origin is unknown. The house was a fine two-story ten-room building, valued at $2,500, which is a total loss, together with most of the contents. Fifteen hundred dollars insurance was carried.

A large number of young folks enjoyed a pound party at the home of Miss Dora Cavitt last Friday night. Wink, clap in and clap out, and other laughable and amusing games made the evening a merry one. Refreshments consisting of nuts, fruits and candies were served by Misses Dora and Loto Cavitt and John Meacham. Alvin Threlhold, of State Line, was the only out-of-town guest.

Killed Himself.

E. B. Eddings, one of the pioneer citizens of Fulton, is dead from the effects of a self-inflicted pistol wound. Brooding over the unfortunate experience of his younger days and continued ill-health he was the victim for the rash deed. Where Mr. Eddings secured the pistol with which he shot himself is a mystery to his wife and members of the family, as no weapon has every been allowed to remain in the house.

Late Tuesday afternoon Mr. Eddings went out into the hall of his residence to lie down on a couch. A few seconds later the family was startled by the report of a pistol, and running into the hallway, were horrified to see the aged husband and father lying prostrate, with the still smoking weapon gripped tightly in his hand. He had placed the muzzle of the pistol in his mouth, the bullet passing out through the side of his head.

Mr. Eddings has been a resident of Fulton for the past thirty or thirty-five years. At one time he was one of the town's wealthiest citizens, but in his declining years he was overtaken by business reverses and his capital was rudely swept away. No citizen of the town was more highly respected than he, and a profound gloom has been cast over the city by his rash deed.

Night Riders Die.

Two alleged night riders, Will Gray and Ed Cook, of Graves county, died Tuesday as the result of wounds received during the visit of the 500 night riders to Hopkinsville Friday night. Both were young men and resided on Muddy Fork, in Trigg county, near Welloma.

After receiving the wounds the men were taken quietly to their homes by others in the night riding order, and the fact that they were fatally wounded was kept quiet and did not come out until their deaths today. It is believed that several other members of the barn burning gang were also wounded.

The Experience of a Poultry Dealer.

Only in recent years has poultry-keeping taken a place among recognized industries. Many of the successful poultry men of to-day were not experts when they began, but had to learn by experience.

"In regard to Sloan's Liniment for poultry diseases," writes E. R. Spaulding, Jaffrey, N. H., "a disease called roup is one of the greatest drawbacks in raising poultry. It is somewhat similar to diphtheria in a horse. After trying and experimenting with everything recommended, I found that Sloan's Liniment was the speediest and surest remedy for roup, and I can especially recommend it for canker in the windpipe."

TALK WITH YOUNG MEN.

"There is always room enough up higher," said Webster, and so there is. It's better to be a first-class cobbler than a third class lawyer. There is more pleasure and satisfaction in it and more money. It is not the "good trade" that makes men rich, but the good understanding of the trade. Some would be poor all their lives and yet work at the best trade known to man; they don't tell on it, hoping for success, when the work is in direct antagonism with their whole being.

We do not believe in giving up the ship until we know it must go down but, if we had find, after commencing a work that wholly unfitted for it, we had better try some other. All men were not born with the power to perform the same work. And yet, it is not necessary that we spend a lifetime in a fruitless endeavor to find our place. If we knew ourselves we shall know our mission; if we do not, poor success is inevitably ours. We care not how much a man may study and experiment, if mechanism is not in his head it cannot come out. You cannot grow pumpkins on squash vines.

Young men, study yourselves, choose your work, and if it satisfies you move on. Bid defiance to all obstacles. Don't surrender to phantoms—they will ever challenge you; fight it out on some line "if it takes all summer." Our boats are headed up the river, and just so sure as we drop the cars so sure we will float down. Keep sure.

This is becoming a wonderful world. Everything is done by steam pressure. When the great Atlantic cable was being lowered it was on all long as the greatest project the world had ever known, and he who was possessor of an inch piece of the twisted wire was rich in relics. Now we have almost forgotten there is such a thing. The air ship is in the center of attraction, but in a few years that too will move into the shadow of some mightier scheme.

SPELLING SCHOOLS.

We should like to see the old-fashioned spelling school once more in vogue in every school district. Good spellers, now-a-days, are so rare that they are indeed exceptional. They are not abundant among collegians,—more the pity—and in the intermediate grades of students they are but but and there seen. In nine-tenths of the letters received by any establishment having letter communication with a large number of the people, errors in orthography are remarkably frequent.

This is a sad comment on our study of the primaries. It calls for some new educational effort, some system that shall awaken new interest in the particular branch alluded to. The best we know of is the old one whose revival we now advocate. Not that it teaches all in connection with orthography which the young ought to know, but that it adds a peculiar zest to the study. With the many helps which the scholars of today possess over those of a generation ago, they should be far ahead in the comparatively dry manner in which orthography is taught at the present time in all sections of our country.

A dictionary is not, on the whole, a very fascinating work for continual perusal; no more is a spell-book and definer of smaller dimensions. A spelling school, of a winter evening, with the excitement of "choosing sides," and a final measurement of syllabic lances in "spelling down" or even an hour devoted to the same, of an occasional afternoon, when recitations flag and a lively impetus is wanted, will tell to capital advantage. Try it, you teachers in the rural districts, turn to your fellow teachers in the town districts, who believe that to perpetuate such an ancient custom would savor of idiosyncrasy, and say to them with emphasis of your experience—"Go thou and do likewise."

If you would know a man's true character, see him in his family.

The luckiest man is he who makes his luck by careful forethought.

HAVE YOU ENEMIES.

Go straight on and don't mind them. If they get in your way walk round them regardless of their spite. A man who has no enemies is seldom good for anything; he is made of that kind of material which is so easily worked that every one has a hand in it. A sterling character is one who thinks for himself and speaks what he thinks; he is always sure to have enemies. They are as necessary to him as fresh air; they keep him alive and active. A celebrated character who was surrounded by enemies used to remark: "They are spurs which, if you do not blow, will go out of themselves." "Live down prejudice," was the Iron Duke's motto. Let this be your feeling while endeavoring to live down the scandal of those who are against you. If you stop to dispute, you do but as they desire, and open the way for more abuse. Let the poor fellows talk—there will be a reaction if you perform but your duty, and hundreds who were once alienated from your will flock to you and acknowledge their error.

TIMID PEOPLE

It is the habit of some people to laugh at the terror which is experienced by others at the heavy thundering crash of the flashing lightning. This is both cruel and wicked, since the victim is no more to blame for it than for the color of his eyes and hair—in fact, like them, it is often hereditary. Such persons should be pitied and soothed, and allowed during these periods to be always near some one whom they love and confide in. More especially is this true of children, some of whom suffer more than words can tell from this, as well as other causes of fear. Deal gently with such; it is the only way to eradicate their fears; ridicule and harshness will only confirm them. The child "afraid of the dark" should never be enforced to encounter it unattended and unwatched. Idiocy has often been the best result of contrary treatment. Let both parents and teachers, then, be thoughtful in these regards.

The true manner of judging of the worth of amusements is to try them by the effect on the nerves and spirits the day after. True amusement ought to be, as the word indicates, recreation—something that refreshes, turns us out anew, rests the body and the mind by change, and gives cheerfulness and alacrity to our return to duty.

worth doing is worth doing well. If you wish to live up to the motto, you must have a positive cure for Sprague, New, Hines, Brutes, Contracted Muscles and all the ills that flesh is heir to. A. O. M. Williams, Nevada, Texas, writes:

"Hickman Bridge."

Relative to the article in the Courier two weeks ago about a Government official being here trying to locate a place called Hickman bridge and which he could not find, Wm. T. Edmonds, of Devall's Bluff, Ark., writes us the following:

"Dear Sirs: In a late issue of the Courier I notice that a government official was in your town trying to locate Hickman Bridge. This bridge is on the Troy and Hickman road; between the two places and spans one of the forks of the Opian river. There was a fight there in early part of 1865 between the Federals, commanded by Jones Gregory, and a band of Confederates, commanded by Bill McDugall. Three Federals and one Confederate were killed and buried near the bridge."

Must Make Good.

Marion Reed and Miss Maggie Bohannon were married in the circuit court room Thursday afternoon at two o'clock by Judge Ed Crossland before a room full of people.

Reed was only during the present term of circuit court sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary on an ugly charge preferred by his new wife, who was then under 16 years of age.

Reed was discharged from the custody of the penitentiary and announced positively that should he fail to make a faithful husband, he would be brought back to jail and the sentence imposed on him. The new law is that he must live with her three years.—Mayfield Messenger.

Hickmanites should remember that Uncle Sam does not permit them to write yuletide sentiments, such as Merry Christmas, Etc., and enclose with presents sent at third and fourth rates. The fine is $10. Be careful to refrain from this tempting violation of the law.
